The Manifest of Shame

Today, April 9, 2021, for the first time in my life, I want to tell the world how ashamed I feel to call myself "human".

Maybe, you will say that I lose my mind or that I am crazy. I understand you perfectly because I have not yet explained my reasons:

According to BBC News, scientists estimate that we are about 8. 7 million species on the planet, most of them still unclassified. This is good because that indicates that the principle of life is diversity.

Among them, only one is human, made up of 7. 7 billion individuals. But for some stupid reason, we believe that thanks to god, we are in some way superior creatures to others. Additionally and, for another similar motive, we can put a price on everything around us.

Existen en el planeta 8,7 millones de especies, de acuerdo con un nuevo censo que, según sus autores, es el más preciso que se ha realizado hasta el momento.

Planet is home to 8.7 million species: study

What’s a plague?

According to biology, the term “pest” does not relate to the total number of individuals. In forests, there are millions of insects and, they are not a pest. That term refers to grabbing natural resources: a small and defined group, making survival difficult to others by accumulating all the elements and, at the same time, multiplying without any control.

This is the core of the capitalist model:
1% of the population (77 million people) owns 99% of the global resources, leaving 7. 623 million without many chances. This, without taking into account 8. 699 million of species that do not have the right to own.

Yes, that is what humans are and, that is how the brain works: an organ and a species capable of creating illusions to obtain food, resources, land and, even the maintenance of life by an abusive competition, for everyone, where accumulation, selfishness, strength, and indifference are the rules of the game.

WALL STREET START TRADING WATER. WILL IT BE THE TURN OF AIR SOON?

Who is, really, a plague on this planet? Among us humans, who behaves like a plague (grabbing, even without needing, everyone's resources and encouraging or justifying destruction, extinction and, annihilation? Who is indifferent toward majorities, including animals, plants, fungi, monera, and protists? Who lies and takes over nature with greed, justifying this big monster called capitalism? Who wants to maintain debt in the consumption model?

1% OF THE WORLD'S POPULATION OWNS 82% OF THE WORLD'S WEALTH, WHILE THE REMAINING 99% HAVE TO ENDURE HOPELESSNESS, LACK OF OPPORTUNITY, WARS, HUNGER, HUMILIATION AND INJUSTICE, FOR A LITTLE WELL-BEING IN LIFE.

The sixth global mass extinction of species began some years ago to keep the consumer model called Capitalism.